THE "PAWS AND REFLECT" ISSUE

FALL/WINTER 2024

Clyde reflects as he moves forward...

As we close our 78th year of dedication to rescue, we reflect on what we do and how our supporters make this happen. Clyde and Roxie spent days on the side of the road. Initially, we thought they were patrolling their property, but later we learned they were abandoned by their owners who moved and left them behind. Each day they stood by the road waiting for kind strangers to leave them food. Assisted by Preston Andrew Noland and his rescue, we were able to bring the two and the unborn litter of seven to the shelter for safety and their journey to trust humans again began.

We continue to be grateful to our community that supports us to help those that cannot help themselves. We appreciate donations, adoptions and goodwill spread to others about our mission!

Our special holiday wish is to see more adopters willing to take a chance on rescue by saying "We are here to save something!" Sometimes a perfect pet - like deaf cat Heidi - just needs a little time away from a shelter and an understanding home.

A Christmas Promise To My Rescue Pet

Though you came from a shelter, the streets or much worse, I feel I have been given a precious gift from the Universe! Though your breed may be mixed and your fur imperfect, You are my special one of a kind pet without any defect!

For this Christmas and days moving into time, I promise to give back your loss until you were mine. No matter where life takes us or how busy I get, There will always be time to train, play and pet pet!

You will never face hunger, pain, fear or neglect, Because you will be a part of my home worthy of respect! This promise is given freely with no expectation of return, I have a RESCUE and my reward is already earned!

33rd Reigning Cats & Dogs: Out Of This World!

Special thanks to Jay Hiatt, Arkansas Photography Club President, for the RC&D photographs below.

The 2024 Reigning Cats & Dogs Fundraiser wrapped up as a truly "Out Of This World" experience! Hosted by our returning witty co-hosts of THV's The Vine, Ashley King and Adam Bledsoe, the evening was filled with laughter and charm! A record number of sponsors and donors kicked off an amazing evening of bidding followed by a weeklong online auction. Five amazing adoptable dogs from the shelter dressed as astronauts made their way down the red carpet and most have already been adopted! Our 2025 calendar cover girl, Freeway, an HSPC alumni also wowed the crowd with her grand entrance. It was memorable and all we can say is just wait until 2025!

♥ ♥ Spotlight On Warm Hearts ♥ ♥ Heath Nicholson, HSPC Volunteer Coordinator

For a long time, we have been searching for the perfect volunteer coordinator. We knew we needed an organized person that could balance communication with volunteers, working with events, as well as ongoing training of volunteers. We also needed someone who could effectively photograph and write authentic and inspiring animal bios. We found all this as well as something else with Heath Nicholson! Coming from a career as a hair stylist and some volunteer work with another rescue, we had no idea that Heath would add the special element of "heart" to his work. Heath knows his volunteers and makes a special point of welcoming them whenever they show up to volunteer in any capacity.

An unexpected bonus is Heath's connection with the animals at our shelter. Though his days are long, he makes a special point of bonding with animals particularly those that may need a little more help connecting with their forever homes to be. He is also assembling a group of very special in-shelter volunteers to focus their attention on some of these animals. This is why our new Volunteer Coordinator, Heath Nicholson, deserves the Warm Hearts Spotlight on him!

Strategies To Maximize Your Charitable Giving

Many investors care deeply about giving back to their communities, and they often do so through traditional monetary gifts. While cash can be an easy and convenient vehicle to support your favorite nonprofits, there are other gifting strategies that may help maximize the value of your generosity and provide tax advantages. Here's an overview on four strategies that may be worth exploring.

1. GIFT HIGHLY APPRECIATED STOCKS OR OTHER ASSETS

If you hold stocks or other investments for more than one year that have gained value, you may consider liquidating the asset to make a charitable donation with the proceeds. However, doing so may result in a taxable long-term capital gain. One potentially more efficient way to maximize the value of your donation is to give appreciated stock directly to a qualified charity. The charity would receive an asset it can continue to hold or immediately sell and you would not generate taxable income from a sale of the asset prior to the donation. Additionally, the market value of the stock at the time the gift is made is generally deductible from your adjusted gross income if you itemize your deductions (subject to income-based limitations). Check to ensure the charity accepts this type of donation before exploring it as a financial strategy.

2. ESTABLISH A CHARITABLE TRUST

Another way to consider gifting assets is to set up a charitable trust. Trusts can help you manage highly appreciated assets in a more tax-efficient manner while, in some cases, allowing you to split assets among charitable and non-charitable beneficiaries. The timing of each gift and the flexibility you want dictates the type of trust that works best. With a Charitable Lead Trust, a charity is funded with income from assets placed in the trust for a specified time period. After that time, the remaining assets revert to other named beneficiaries, such as your heirs. In a Charitable Remainder Trust, the reverse occurs. The trust makes regular income payments back to you or another beneficiary. After a period of time specified in the trust, the remaining assets are directed to the named charities. These trusts have specific rules and are generally established through a professional. An alternative option is to choose a donor-advised fund, which allows you to make a large donation that may be immediately deductible from taxes but gives you the flexibility to recommend gifts to charities spread out over a period of years. Work with your attorney or tax professional for additional information on what may be appropriate for your circumstances.

3. MAXIMIZE DONATIONS THROUGH YOUR EMPLOYER

Workplace giving campaigns are becoming increasingly popular. Your employer may offer the convenience of making contributions through payroll deductions, allowing you to give systematically with each paycheck. In addition, your employer may match a certain donation amount, which can add to the impact your gift makes. If you have access to these or other workplace giving programs, check to see if the charities you care about are eligible to receive this type of donation.

4. MAKE A CHARITABLE INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT (IRA) DONATION

If you have reached age 70 ½, or wish to wait until the age at which you are required to take distributions from your traditional IRA each year, but you don't need the money to meet your essential and lifestyle expenses, you may prefer to avoid the resulting tax bill. An alternative is to take advantage of the Qualified Charitable Distribution rule. It allows you to transfer funds directly from your IRA to a qualified charitable organization. This is a tax-efficient way to shift up to $105,000 in 2024 out of an IRA. By doing so, you may avoid having to claim income (and subsequent tax liability) since you would not receive the required distribution. If you have not yet reached the age at which you are required to take distributions, you may want to consider this strategy as part of your retirement plan. To determine when required distributions will start for you (based on your birth year), visit IRS.gov.

As you consider these charitable giving along with other gifting strategies, consult with your financial advisor and tax advisor. These professionals can help you evaluate the choices to ensure the gifts you make are most effective for your goals and consistent with your overall financial plan.
